Gold Future (April '15)

13th March 2015

Yesterday's Market Profile

Daily Candlestick Chart

Comment

- Short Term Trend: Bearish
- Medium Trend: Neutral
- Candlestick Chart says: "We.. have seen some buyers returning since in overnight trade today. Can it be sustained? I'd say most likely no, so this could be a selling opportunity" – it was. Hope you got on it. Yesterday was a Doji candle so some indecision is creeping in for now. Not a surprise as we're bumping up to some pretty big support levels. The trend is still lower though, and that rally in the USD is pretty unrelenting as well, isn't it?
- Profile charts say: "1165-69 could weigh and that's the early evidence in overnight trade" – More of the same.
- Summary: Looking for 1130.4 still, selling rallies while 1186 and 1196 are above.

Comment

- Short Term Trend: Bearish
- Medium Trend: Bearish
- Candlestick Chart says: Responsive sellers were found on yesterday's rally in Asian trade as we expected although it was a pretty neutral day overall, as evidenced by the resulting "High Wave" candle we posted on the daily. Downtrend resistance is at 15.90 today so this and 16.04 are the levels that would need to be retaken before we could think about the idea that a bottom could be in. Otherwise stick with the trend and sell rallies.
- Profile Charts say: A fairly balanced Profile (a bit like our new Logo!) yesterday and the VPOC at 155.4 is S1 as it seems to be doing a job overnight. Says the ship has been steadied, but that's all for now.
- Summary: Sellers in charge overall still, targeting 14.15, the December low/bounce.
